

To members of the RBHS Community:

I am excited to announce today what I anticipate will be a provocative and highly informative RBHS speaker series created in part to help guide faculty and staff as we go through our RBHS strategic planning process. The series, designed under the theme "The Future of the U.S. Health Delivery System," begins 3 pm Friday, March 14, and runs through June. All speakers will present live in either Newark, New Brunswick, or Piscataway, and their presentations will be simulcast on the other two campuses.

Please consult the attachment for information about our first three speakers. I look forward to seeing many of you at these presentations. Thank you.

Brian Strom
March 6, 2014